Good morning {firstname},

I don't think anyone ever said buy a Hosta for the flowers, they are foliage plants and among the many varieties are plain and variegated leaves in different colours. Hostas are often used to hide old leaves around the base of Alliums but just look at how beautiful and intricate their delicate flowers are. This is the second time this Hosta Halcyon has flowered this year, it is in a pot on a shady patio and clearly likes it there. Click on the image to view a close up of the flowers.
