Good morning,

Have you been to Venice {firstname} ?

It is several years since I was last there but just looking again at this photograph brings back so many memories of this magical and truly unique city.

Welcome to the first Monday picture of September. As it is the 81st Venice International Film Festival this week I thought I would share this photograph of the Church of San Giorgio Maggiore with its 63 metre bell tower. This image is now available to buy on the website.

In The Journal .... a quick reminder that there are several articles on different paper finishes and mounting methods. Click the link below to go there.

One image and the background story.

Until next Monday have a great week.
